

It was a great turn out for the QSM. The weather was nice, with even some shade at the start/finish line to help keep everyone cool, before and after their brief period of exertion. The running clinic group was out in force. There were many new faces, way too many faces and names for me to memorize. But, I did notice that they all seemed to be smiling when they came across the finish line. And, I didn't even hear any complaining when they were being "driven on for more torture" by their group leader. Way to go everyone! And, as usual, if I have made any errors in the results list below, please let me know. Paul
